Exam Booklet Sample Test

All answers must be filled in on the answer sheet to be valid.

PAPER ONE

Reading and Writing

1
El sello no puede ser
violado hasta que se
le indique.

Do not open until told.

60 min

INSTRUCTIONS: Read the short messages and choose the best sentence for each one. For numbers 1–4, fill in the correct letter (A, B or C) on your answer sheet.

1.

Customer

I'm unhappy with my phone. It arrived yesterday, and right out of the box it charges more slowly than the product description says online. Can you help? Also, I can't update some apps, so it's not what I need.

Manager

We're very sorry. We've had a few similar complaints and can send you equipment that will charge your phone faster. We're working on the problem with downloading. Customer service will call you soon to give you instructions.

- A The buyer is upset about the speed of the company's delivery service.
- B The webpage advertisement was incorrect, according to the buyer.
- C The company didn't realize there was a problem before this message.

CoachSteve

Hi players and families! As you know, the Tiger Soccer Club is busy organizing its annual tournament next month. We're asking parents to help register the visiting teams on Saturday and sell food all day Saturday and Sunday in order to support our club. Remember, our goal is to pay an assistant coach this year. If you can help, write back here in the comments.

SoccerMom

We'd be happy to help on Sunday morning. Please send the details. Thanks!

- A The Tiger Soccer Club is traveling to a soccer tournament next month.
- B One of the parents would like more information before deciding to help.
- C The money they make at this event will go to the club, not the parents.

3.

Melissa

What can I bring to your house on Friday?

Johanna

Hey Melissa! I invited Ron and Tony and they offered to bring some meat for the hamburgers, but now Tony can't make it, so I think we'll need more. Could you bring some? If you can't make it to the supermarket, you can just pass by the corner store and get more soda. But really, as long as everybody comes, we'll eat a lot and have lots of fun.

- A Ron doesn't want to come to the party without Tony.
- B Melissa must buy meat for the hamburgers and something else.
- C Johanna doesn't mind if her friends are too busy to help.

4.

Class Discussion Group

Teacher

Who do you respect most?

Karla

Some people choose celebrities, but for me it's my dad. He's reliable, he works really hard and always helps at home. And he's so funny!

Alex

Mine's funny, too. I'll talk about my uncle. I moved in with him ten years ago. He has four other kids and got a second job, but still has time for us. He makes us laugh, and I could trust him with my life!

- A Alex and Karla have the same basic reasons for respecting people.
- B Both students think achievement is more important than character.
- C Alex and Karla would agree that a sense of humor is required.

INSTRUCTIONS: Match each type of text with the extract that describes it. For numbers 5–8, fill in the correct letter (A–F) on your answer sheet. There are TWO ADDITIONAL extracts.

Dr. John's Blog

We used to think that coffee didn't have a lot of health benefits. Like with most things, drinking too much of it can be unhealthy, so keep it to three or four cups a day. But there's good news for everyone who needs coffee to get the day started—and for the many patients who contact me wanting to know if it can be healthy. We've known that coffee contains a small number of vitamins and minerals, such as antioxidants, and now several recent studies show that coffee reduces the risk of some major diseases, most importantly, heart disease. It is also connected to possible benefits for brain health.

Students in the Erasmus Student Network are helping to make the world smaller and friendlier by supporting student exchange programs. The organization was created to strengthen the European Union, but they have partner organizations all over the world. About 15,000 student members help other exchange students, and thanks to them, over 300,000 students at the university level and above take part in Erasmus programs every year. Members say they are glad to know they belong to an international group of students working for change.

The project helps with studying, internships, research, and even part-time jobs, and it brings people together. Look for Erasmus in your country!

INSTRUCTIONS: Read this text about an American football team. For numbers 15–22, fill in the correct letter (A, B, or C) on your answer sheet.

A Special Team

With one minute left, the other team has a last chance to score. Their quarterback throws the ball between two defenders. They drop it, and the California School of the Deaf wins the championship, 80–26. They're undefeated—12–0—a perfect season! The team was excited to be in the national headlines. Not losing a single game all season is quite an achievement; however, it's even greater for them. Their football program started over half a century ago, but they've never won a tournament. And for more than a decade, they haven't had a winning season, although they were only one game away in the previous season.

That's not for lack of trying, though. Only dedicated athletes know what is needed to succeed at a high level. Athletes usually start young, and the routine can mean training three times a day or frequently getting hurt. Most people who love American football dream of playing it in high school and college, but they never make it, in part because of the tremendous effort required.

You might also think that there are extra challenges for this team, as every player is deaf. But they don't want you to think of them as disabled. Actually, they consider their communication to be better than the average team. For them, being deaf is a strength, since they make decisions using what they can see happening on the field, and the crowd noise never distracts them. Being alike has brought them together—these players know their friendships will last for a lifetime.

Now, the coaches, the parents, and the reporters can't stop talking about this team. Their season has been incredible, full of spectacular plays. They've made headlines and been honored at the Super Bowl since they started winning again last year, but media attention for winning is not their primary ambition. The team wants their success to send this message: Deaf players can do as well or better than anyone else.

15. The team won their final game _____.
A because the other team made a mistake
B at the last possible moment in the game
C by scoring points during the whole game
16. This year, the California School of the Deaf football team _____.
A carried out a team ambition at long last
B were hoping to appear in the newspaper
C prevented other teams from scoring at all

17. The school football team _____.
A had many winning seasons like this before
B never had long periods without winning
C had a second chance at success this year
18. According to the author, _____.
A being a top athlete is always enjoyable
B fans can't understand an athlete's life
C starting sports later will usually be difficult
19. The article says that _____.
A most fans in America also play football
B if you train hard, you can be an athlete
C many people imagine a similar future
20. This team has _____.
A turned their challenges into an advantage
B better sight than the teams they play against
C had to learn to communicate with their coach
21. The players feel close because _____.
A they won their team's championship
B they're different from other players
C they were already friends at school
22. The California School of the Deaf team _____.
A are still trying to achieve a goal
B would like to be in the news again
C want to be recognized as special

INSTRUCTIONS: Read this article about an unusual language and choose the words that complete the text. For numbers 23–30, fill in the correct letter (A, B, or C) on your answer sheet.

Esperanto

Languages are a challenge to learn, and people spend significant time and energy on them. However, there's a language that's meant to be learned within a year of (23)_____ it up: Esperanto.

Unlike most languages, Esperanto was created by one person, Dr. L.L. Zamenhof, in the 19th century. He lived in Poland, which, at that time, had inhabitants from more than four countries, although there were four (24)_____ groups of language speakers: Russian, Polish, German, and Jewish. Communication was (25)_____ impossible, and the lack of understanding bothered Zamenhof. So, he invented a new language with simpler rules, consisting (26)_____ vocabulary that came from the over seven languages he spoke. In a world with so many serious problems, Zamenhof designed a language to give the world hope, which is what the name means.

As we know, Esperanto never (27)_____ to world peace. In fact, France even voted (28)_____ the use of Esperanto at first. The French thought it (29)_____ become too popular, but only between one and two million people speak Esperanto in the world today. There's also a network of speakers that helps members (30)_____ each other when they're traveling so they can speak together.
